

Pauline Grace Ingram

November 3, 1927 - February 21, 2017

Pauline Grace Ingram, 89, of Corvallis died peacefully on Feb. 21 2017.

Pauline was born to Howard and Grace Buckingham on Nov. 3, 1927. Pauline grew up on the family farm in Bellfountain and graduated from Monroe High School. She married Alvin Ingram and together they raised two sons while living in Eugene.

Later in life, Pauline was employed by the Bethel School District and worked at Fairfield Elementary School until her retirement. After her retirement she enjoyed traveling throughout Oregon. She especially took pleasure in visiting the various lighthouses that dot the Oregon coast.

Pauline was proud of her pioneer heritage and was a life member of the Sons and Daughters of Oregon Pioneers.

Pauline is survived by her two sons, Larry Ingram and Raymond Ingram. She also leaves behind three grandchildren, Jennifer Ingram, Michael Ingram and Linda Harrison, and four great-grandchildren.

Memorial contributions in Pauline's name can be made to Benton Hospice Service.

A memorial service will be at 11 a.m. Tuesday, Feb. 28, at Bellfountain Community Church.

Comments

“ Pauline was a remarkable, impeccable, intelligent, efficient, caring, aristocratic, giving, helpful friend. There aren't enough adjectives for her. I am very sad yet happy knowing she is now at peace both mentally and physically. Our sunset years are not always like we planned and these last years were difficult for such a proud and independent person as our Pauline. I regret not being able to spend time with her. My heart is breaking for Larry, Ray, and their families, my love to you all. Polly, Godspeed dear dear friend, my candles are burning and your secret is out, I finally know your true age. The one thing you would never tell us. Sondra Juve Short
