“ I was so sad when I read of Cindy's death in Friday's newspaper. Cindy and I worked together for many years in University Housing and Dining Services at Oregon State. She was my go-to person for many things, especially when it was just the two of us coordinating housing for the groups who used the campus residence halls for summer conferences. Our personal motto was "We sweat the details."

Cindy faced many challenges with her medical conditions over the years, I'm sorry that the conditions finally took their toll. I hope she was able to face the end with her usual chipper personality intact, surrounded by the family members she so greatly loved.
