

George Marshall

March 27, 1919 - January 13, 2013

Fred Marshall of Snoqualmie, Wash., went to be with the Lord. His wife, Viola, and their only surviving child, Marjorie Kinch, were at his side. He grew up in Northeastern Washington, attending Marcus High School. After graduating, he moved to Seattle, where he met his future wife, Viola. They recently celebrated their 70th wedding anniversary. Fred and Vi moved to Ernie's Grove on the North Fork of the Snoqualmie River in 1944, where they lived for their married lives.

Fred was preceded in death by his two sons, Frederick "Ricky" and John Marshall. He is survived by his wife, Vi Marshall; his daughter, Marjorie Kinch, and her husband, Mike, of Corvallis; and his daughter-in-law, Julia Marshall of Edmonds, Wash. Fred has four grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. He will be buried near other members of the family in Evergreen-Washelli Cemetery in Seattle. A memorial service will be announced later. In lieu of flowers, his family suggests donations to Benton Hospice Service, 2350 N.W. Professional Drive, Corvallis, OR 97330.

“Dad, I miss you so much. I hope you knew I was there when you left us. I cry when having to deal with all of this burial stuff. I will always remember the trips we had up into Weyerhauser country, driving the back roads, fishing, swimming and even getting lost and hiking most of the day to find a way out. I hope the here after has salmon running up stream and beautiful things of God's creation. Mostly I hope you have found peace. Margie
