“ I would like to offer my sincerest condolences to your family for your loss. Illness, especially cancer, is a terrible thing, and God promises to remove all causes of suffering. He will restore our earth to a paradise, and he yearns to bring back to life on earth those of our loved ones who have died. The Bible says that one day soon, "all those in the memorial tombs will come out," and you can take hope that you will see your loved one again very soon. Take comfort in your family and friends as well as through prayer.
