“ Can't imagine anyone could work any harder than Greg did. After working all week hauling logs, I would hear Greg up sometimes as early as 2am on Saturday mornings banging away fixing and getting his truck ready for Monday morning.
Neighbor who will sorely miss him

“ I'm going to miss are Friday visit with me as we would have a drink and I would ask well how's the other half doing and he would say well shit she's Ornerly as ever so that's a good sign to me!! 🍷 He absolutely loved his Ornerly Lady of the house and he was such an amazing friendly caring man!💙 He will always be missed by so many and his kindness and memory will live on forever!

“ Met Greg on a hauling job north of John Day . Think it was about midnight that winter as the Forest service wouldn't let us on the ground until it froze good. We were both waiting our turn to load and both of us were from western Oregon. So, we hit it off. That was the winter of '93' I think. Been good friends since although mostly on Facebook these last years. We talked about getting together for a beer or two since we both retired about the same time. I told him that sounded pretty safe since they stopped making Blitz years ago. Got a chuckle out of him. Can't say how bad I feel for not making good on that! Last time I seen him and Jody was the summer of 06. I miss him like hell right now.

“ Greg is my uncle, a true redneck with a huge heart. He is one of a kind. I keep waiting for him to come through the sliding glass door saying what's up Bran...We often joked that I am his favorite niece....however it is true lol. I keep seeing his face with a smile or a shit eaten grin. I am struggling with hls loss. It just can't be....
