“ Eric and I were heart broken to hear the news we both cried together and prayed together. Our hearts go out to the family. Especially Marianne and the girls. We remember going to Seattle on the train for a weekend trip with the Dyes before children - where he picked up a flute, and Johnathan playing trick. Then he learned to play the flute on worship team at church. We remember going on a hike at the coast, with the Dyes, we remember Johnathans dry humor, and passion for climbing mountains. We remember the Dyes taking FPU with us. We remember Johnathan helping with the sound board at church. Eric enjoyed chatting with Johnathan, and I would try to strike up a conversation with him in the CAFE at church. I remember going on marriage retreats and other special church events and Johnathan was part of them. It's hard to have a long history with someone over the years and now they are gone. Our faith is in the Lord and trust that one day we will be reunited with Johnathan in the heavenly realms. Now we pray for the family Gods comfort and love and the peace that passes all understanding. Love, the Stuewe's

“ I have known Jonathan for a little over a year and in that time we only had brief conversations but they were long enough for me to know that I was jealous of the life he lived. He always seemed to be challenging himself while being there to help those around him, he is a good example of what we should all aspire to and he will be missed.
