“ I first met Ken in an OSU exercise class where we were a small group, some of us left over from an OSU study on exercise. Ken was such a warm, friendly and fun person and always willing to share his expertise about real estate. When my farmer husband and I were thinking of buying a farm, Ken generously offered his advice whenever asked. He earned “melons for life”, we told him. Although we saw him often at our melon stand at farmer’s market he almost always insisted on paying. Our thoughts are with you.
