“ Though I never met in person Great Uncle Paul we shared many a phone conversation. One thing the boys did in Mclaughlin was shovel coal for the train. They got paided good money as youngsters as a local engineer would notify them when he needed helpers. This job was just across the road from their house. Shovel work has always been a Hlavinka pastime. Grandpa Don will finally be able to talk advitally with Paul as now no phones are needed. If their are phones up there expect the lines to be tied up for at least a two hour minimum.
