Oct. 2, 1953 — Nov. 5, 2014

Lars Sandstrom of Philomath passed away on Nov. 5, 2014, at the age of 61, after suffering a heart attack. At the time of his passing, he was surrounded by his family and close friends.

Lars was born in Corvallis to Carl and Nadine Sandstrom. He lived in Klamath Falls before moving to Harlan. He graduated from Eddyville High School in 1971. In 1974, Lars married Marcy Calkins. This Nov. 23, they would have celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary.

Lars was a kind and generous person who was well known for his hunting and fishing skills. You always could find him on the river or in the woods, doing what he truly loved. He was proud of everything his family stood for and was passionate about sharing his knowledge with family and friends.

Lars forever will be remembered for his sense of humor and the ability to make people laugh. He also will be remembered as a super baseball player and lover of everything sports. Most of all he enjoyed watching his children's, and more recently his grandchildren's, sports activities.

He is survived by his wife, Marcy Sandstrom of Philomath; his daughter,

Jaime, and son-in-law, Curtis Been, of Pendleton; his son, Jeff Sandstrom of Philomath; and sisters, Linda and her husband, Billy McNeely, of Corvallis, Brenda and her husband, Tommy Thomas, of Philomath, and Leslie and her husband, Jerry Walker, of Alsea. Lars had four grandchildren, Blake Been, Brooklyn Been, Ellie Sandstrom and River Sandstrom; plus numerous nieces and nephews.

Private burial took place at Harlan Cemetery.
