“ I met Virginia when we were in a water exercise class at Timberhill Athletic Club. She and Norman lived in my neighborhood as well. She was such a pleasant and upbeat person and always had a smile. Often a group of us would go out for coffee after class. my most vivid memory of her was that when I had surgery she visited me and brought me asparagus from her garden. She knew that I loved it and had trouble growing it myself. What a sweet and kind person. We missed her when she moved to Portland.
